

the National Trust for Scotland
a place for everyone

Media Information

August 2009

Re-live the Battle of Bannockburn with the National Trust for Scotland

Just 2 miles from Stirling Castle, Bannockburn is immortalised in Scottish, European and world history by Robert the Bruce's famous victory in 1314.

Today, the National Trust for Scotland is delighted to offer coach and tour operators the unique opportunity to experience a guided tour of the battlefield by 'Thomas Randolph', General to Robert the Bruce, an interactive medieval weapons display, and the Trust's gripping new short film depicting the dramatic events of June 1314 – all for the special introductory rate of £4.50 per person.

Available only to the travel trade, prices are based on minimum groups of 12, with pre-booking essential. Available Monday to Friday during June, July and August 2010, tours last approximately 1 hour. Offer includes free coach parking.

Scott McMaster, Property Manager for Bannockburn explained, "I want to bring Bannockburn to life for everyone, that's why we're working with two of Scotland's leading living history artists and our new short film includes cast members from the Hollywood blockbusters Braveheart, Gladiator, King Arthur and the new Robin Hood movie."

For all bookings and enquiries email the National Trust for Scotland at traveltrade@nts.org.uk or telephone 0844 493 2104 (+44 131 243 9304 from outside the UK).

ENDS